Welcome to

SRHR 2018 Amsterdam

Over the past few months, we have worked tirelessly and collaboratively to curate the first ever pre-conference focussed on sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) ahead of the International AIDS Conference.

While we know that poor sexual and reproductive health and HIV share common root causes, the respective responses remain largely unaligned, uncoordinated, and under-resourced. With growing conservatism working against gender and human rights-based policies, including the Global Gag Rule, there is now more than ever a need for integrated action.

Today, we want to try something a little different. Not only do we want to inspire fresh thinking, but we also want to explore new and practical paths for succeeding in joining the SRHR and HIV response. Based on information collected from a short survey, we hope we’ve created a platform and conversation that is timely, topical and globally represented.

The success of this programme is largely due to the commitment of our speakers and advisory group and I would like to take this opportunity to thank you all personally for your contributions and support!

Networking is immensely important, so we have actively created opportunities for the fostering of introductions and the sharing of expertise between peers and partners. These conversations will continue in the SRHR Networking Zone of the Global Village throughout the main conference.

We are thrilled that you could join us here in Amsterdam and hope that this pre-conference will maximise the much-needed visibility of SRHR-related issues over the course of the week and beyond.

We now invite you to familiarise yourselves with the official SRHR Roadmap for AIDS 2018 and hope you enjoy the conference!

On behalf of the Programme Advisory Group,

Daniel McCartney

SRHR Pre-Conference

Breaking Barriers, Building Bridges for the Right to Decide

Saturday, 21 July (8:30am - 5:00pm)
Organizer: Rutgers and the International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF)

RAI Amsterdam Convention Centre, Room E103
Poor sexual and reproductive health (SRH) and HIV share common root causes, and yet, the respective responses to HIV and to sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) remain largely unaligned, uncoordinated, and under-resourced. The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are an important opportunity to advance an integrated SRH and HIV agenda by recognising the importance of universal SRH for achieving health (SDG 3). However, there are significant gaps. With growing conservatism to gender and human rights-based policies, including the Global Gag Rule, now more than ever there is a need for joint action by governments and communities, civil society organisations, international organisations, donors, and researchers supporting a strong response to address SRHR and HIV.

Our one-day pre-conference aims to create a vibrant and inclusive platform on which to:

- Foster thematic learning and networking focused on the linkages between SRHR and HIV
- Facilitate global connections and collaborations with organisations working on issues related to SRH, human rights and HIV
- Further unite global SRHR and HIV responses to achieve the targets set within the SDGs – including lessons learned on the impact of the Global Gag Rule

With the Netherlands as a long-standing champion and supporter of SRHR and one of the key initiators of the SheDecides movement, AIDS 2018 provides the perfect opportunity to help defend the achievements and advance the health, rights, and general well-being of all people, including women and girls, people living with HIV, and key populations with a focus on Eastern Europe and Central Asia.

OBJECTIVES

- Fresh thinking - provide an inclusive and interactive thematic learning and networking environment focusing on the linkages and integration between SRHR and HIV, including the SRHR of young people, women, people living with HIV and key populations.
- Explore new paths - strengthen and establish innovative partnerships for joining up SRHR and HIV practically and furthering respect, protection and promotion of SRHR of people vulnerable or living with HIV.
- Join the movement - create a space for a political dialogue between the SRHR and HIV communities to agree on common action to face the current threats of the external environment, and engage potential champions and unite activists who want to advance SRHR and HIV jointly.

Her work in community mobilization began in the 1980s when she helped establish Positively Women, the first organization of women living with HIV in the UK and one of the first globally. She subsequently played a role in the creation of a number of other global, regional and country-level networks of people living with and highly impacted by HIV. She has a Master’s degree in English from Goldsmith College, London.

JESS TILLEY

President, New England Users Union, USA

Jess Tilley has been working in harm reduction for two decades. She firmly believes harm reduction saved her life and gives back to her community by incorporating love and acceptance of others no matter where they are in their journey. Jess is also one of the main organizers with USU National, a collective of North American drug user unions. Together they are combating major issues that affect the drug using community, such as induced homicide laws. Currently she is working to discover and educate drug using leaders in the disciplines of outreach, community building, advocacy for basic human rights and nuances of human connection. The most integral part of her work is to continue to be the voice for drug users who cannot speak in our society because of the shame and stigma they will undoubtedly face.
JAEL VAN DER HEIJDEN

Generation Now: Our Health, Our Rights

Sunday, 22 July 2018 (9:00am-6:30pm)
Organizer: Women Deliver and the International AIDS Society (IAS)

RAI Amsterdam Convention Centre, Room E105-108

Generation Now: Our Health, Our Rights, is a bold new approach to integrating the SRHR and HIV movements for better health outcomes for adolescents and young women. Organized by the International AIDS Society (IAS) and Women Deliver, Generation Now works to move the dial for young women and adolescents by working to ensure that integrated and comprehensive SRHR and HIV policies, services, and systems are the norm and not the exception. The dynamic programme will include presentations, interviews and interactive workshops with advocates, academics, funders, policy makers, client, front-line healthcare workers and more. The programme is action- and solutions-oriented; it will highlight the evidence and best practices for linking HIV with sexual and reproductive health programmes, and tackle the policy and structural barriers that hinder access to these services. The day will culminate in a reflection of how to collectively move ideas into action.

Global Village - Booth #517

If you are interested to learn more about the linkages between HIV and SRHR, come visit us all week in the Global Village. We will provide a vibrant and inclusive learning and networking environment with a full calendar of daily sessions, emphasizing the shared drivers of HIV acquisition and SRHR violations, including poverty, gender inequality, discrimination and marginalization, to raise awareness of the importance of integrated information provision and service delivery. The programme will showcase community-driven and community-responsive innovation and best practices, with a focus on projects led by young people and key populations. This is an open and stigma-free space for ideas, materials exchange and partnership for collaborative action to further the respect, protection and promotion of sexual and reproductive rights for all.

Stop by to sign the SheDecides manifesto to uphold sexual and reproductive rights; play a game of “Sex Ed Jeopardy” with youth advocates; learn more about condoms and lubricant (including demonstrations); or catch a quick conversation with one of our resident “SRHR experts”. You can pick up a full schedule at the Networking Zone.
